

Summary of the Invention

Proposed is a method, as well as a tool, for performing a process to create a joint in which wall sections 8 of work opening 4 of die 5 are designed to yield, and in which cold hardening of the compressed material is achieved by a stop element after a specified distance has been traversed.

Figure 2